

App Start Test Case

Test Case ID: T_0	Test Designed by: Filip Heger
Test Name: Program Required Behavior Verification
Brief description: Testing if the program can be run and works correctly.
Pre-conditions: Locate the project repository. Read the README.md file thoroughly and follow provided instructions. Read the documentation provided in the project. The database which will be accessed by the app must be in the correct format and edited according to README.md using the provided SQL scripts.
Dependencies and Requirements: Windows OS

Step	Test Steps	Test Data	Expected Result	Notes
1	Download the project release.		Release successfully downloaded	.zip
2	Locate and open DatabaseConfig.json		Config is open in a text editor ready to edit
3	Insert login and database credentials	Logins made in the setup stage, School provided server Microsoft SQL name and database MoviesDB	The config is edited
4	Navigate to the root of the release and run the application in the command line 'bin/MoviDB.exe'		The application opens with a welcome message	The application will not show a cli and write a simple error message about failed initial connection if the credentials or database setup were incorrect
5

Test Case ID: T_1	Test Designed by: Filip Heger
Test Name: Program Invalid Config Detection
Brief description: Testing if the program detects an incorrectly defined configuration file.
Pre-conditions: T_0 successful.
Dependencies and Requirements: Windows OS

Step	Test Steps	Test Data	Expected Result	Notes
1	Locate the and open DatabaseConfig.json		Config opened in a text editor
2	Edit the config into an invalid state	Wrong credentials	File is saved with the wrong credentials
3	Run the application		Applications shows an error about either a failed connection or failure to parse the config.
4	Repeat steps 1-3 with variations and even invalid JSON	Invalid data with variety	Program still throws corresponding error messages
5				